Anchor, 2012. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: Shortlisted for the James Tait Black Prize A Best Book of the Year The Washington Post The Boston Globe "A witty, provocative urban fable. . . . If you enjoy surprising, often comic insights into contemporary life, [Smith is] someone to relish." -- The New York Times Book Review "A beguiling ode to human connection shot through with existential wonder and virtuosic wordplay. If you fell for Jennifer Egan's A Visit From the Goon Squad, you'll appreciate Smith's formal twists and turns--and there's more where There came from." -- Time Magazine "Brilliant. . . . Both funny and moving--it succeeds because of Smith's extraordinary skill with ordinary language." --A.S. Byatt, The Guardian (UK) "Weird and wonderful. . . . Beautifully elusive. . . . It is really about small stuff like life and death and the meaning of human existence, all told with sharp humor and real insight." -- Entertainment Weekly "A marvel. . . . Exceedingly clever. . . . [It] packs a wallop in part because it engages us to read more actively." -- The Washington Post "Quirky, intricately put together. . . . A book about loss and retention: about what we forget and what we remember, about the people who pass through our lives and what bits of them cling to our consciousness." --Charles McGrath, The New York Times "Ambitious, rambunctious, and poetic. . . . Contains all the real, solid stuff of a novel. It satisfies, it enlightens, and there's a surge of wonderment and poignancy beneath the narrative that continually springs up." -- The Philadelphia Inquirer "By turns whimsical and subtly wrenching. . . . With her penchant for wordplay on full display, the author of The...
