Completely buried under its own ruins, it was found on excavation to stand 3 or 4 feet high outside (fig. 23) and 2 or 3 inside in places, and to be 12 feet wide. The faces were well built of fair-sized stones, pinned in small ones, and with rubblework between. Fig. 24 shows the inner face, at a point where the natural rock was used to eke out the defence. The Entrance, was approached from the east up a rather steep natural gap in the hill, 60 feet long, 10 wide, and 8 or 10 in depth,...

Totally one of the better pdf I have at any time read through. It really is simplified but shocks within the 50 % from the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
